

a little about me.....I :

have traveled on six continents, to 37 countries and island nations, and on several bodies of water, enjoyed diverse recreational activities ranging from skydiving and paragliding to scuba diving to trekking in the Himalayas - including an expedition to Mt. Everest, made AND lost a fortune, earned a bachelors degree in Education, an MBA, and graduate and post-graduate studies in rehabilitation, have worked in the field of disabilities, in Texas, New Mexico, and California, earned a Switzer Research Fellowship from the Federal Dept. of Education, am now a film-maker and that was all AFTER I became disabled. My international friends have asked me how I became disabled. Well, I fell from a cliff when I was 17. I broke my neck at the C-5 level causing instant paralysis from the shoulders down.

My real passion is research on Community-based Rehabilitation \(CBR\). Check out that page if you have an interest in international rehabilitation programs.
